

United States Must Get Production Now, Not 1943

A clarion call to the nation has been sounded by Donald Nelson, head of War Production, to realize that what we do now is vastly more important to our survival than what we hope to do a year from now. Mr. Nelson emphasizes that March, April and May, 1942, are vital in checking the Axis.

It is admitted that production plans for 1943 will put us away out in front of the Axis, but says Mr. Nelson, Germany and Japan are also fully aware of this fact and they are straining every nerve and muscle to win the war in 1942. Americans, he argues, feeling that 1943 will see our huge production plans realized, have not awakened as yet to the stark reality that it is now—this week, this month, next week and next month—that we must put forth our maximum efforts to increase production and checkmate the Axis.

The succession of defeats since Pearl Harbor have not been due entirely to our lack of physical preparation, but also to our mental attitude. We have thought in terms of defense. We have surfeited ourselves with the notion that it was time enough to get busy when the enemy came to our shores. True it is, that Pearl Harbor aroused us to a sense of unity and the realization of the size of our task, yet for many, Pearl Harbor only increased the feeling that we must increase our defenses. The importance of offense as the best defense has not been sufficiently grasped by our people.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a recent radio address, indicated that the fall of Singapore and Hongkong, as well as the prolonged attack on the Philippines, resulted, in part, from the severe blow dealt our fleet and air force at Pearl Harbor.

Apparently only the Netherlands East Indies were not caught napping. They had prepared to the limit of their resources. From the day of the attack on Pearl Harbor, the Dutch at once began a carefully worked out plan of attack. They understood that the Japanese had them on their list of victims and acted accordingly.

As President Roosevelt has indicated, we must bend every last ounce of exertion to equip our forces to take the offensive with a minimum of delay. As Americans begin to grasp the fact that our whole Anglo-Saxon civilization rests on this war, they will double and re-double their efforts to make production count—not merely in 1943, but at once.

Word has been received by Mrs. Ray Wood, chairman of the Red Cross unit here, that material will be in San Jose Monday and that Campbell's quota will be ready when the women assemble to work on Wednesday, March 18.

Second Son of Bryants Killed In Line of Duty

The grief and tragedy of war was again brought vividly to the citizens of this community when they learned that a second son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bryant of North Third street had lost his life in the crash of a United States navy plane Sunday. They have another son, Weaver, 28, who resides in Carson City, Nevada.

Robert H. Bryant, 25 years of age who had enlisted in the army in 1935, was an aviation metalsmith, first class. He was married only last August to Genevieve Wann of South Tenth street, San Jose. He had been home on leave just a few days before his death.

Bryant was one of eight men who were killed when their navy airplane crashed during a take-off at Tongue Point on the Columbia river in Oregon.

Following so soon after the death of their younger son, Floyd E. Bryant, 20, who was killed in the attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, this second loss was so much of a shock that Mrs. Bryant was confined to her bed, attended by her husband and two married daughters.

The doubly bereaved parents and sisters are extended the sincerest sympathy of the entire citizenry.

Leverton, treasurer; Willard Van Dyke, financial secretary; Mrs. Charles Dondero, auditor; Mrs. Ray Wood, historian; and Mrs. Anthony Jurras, parliamentarian.

The unit has proudly reached its quota of 200 members as reported by Mrs. Henry Jensen, membership chairman.

Members from the Cambrian district acted as hostesses for the afternoon with Mrs. Clarence Fagalde as chairman. The program consisted of a flute solo, "Indian Love Call" by Lenore Campbell, accompanied by Bernice Hansen; and two clarinet numbers "Cheri-ber-bie" and "Beautiful Dreamer" by Eleanor McQueen.

Dr. Jay C. Elder of San Jose State college gave an informational and inspirational talk on scholastic and social problems of the high school and entering college student. Activities and different types of educational programs at San Jose State were described by the speaker.

Kenneth Dwelley, faculty member of the high school, presented the agricultural program for boys interested in farming. Besides instruction in the classroom and practical work in the field, boys carry on projects at home which are most profitable to them, financially and educationally. The purpose of an agriculture course is to establish a boy in farming.

Installation of the new officers and "Educational Opportunity" will be the theme of the April meeting. The members present adjourned for refreshments prepared by the hostesses of the afternoon.

Man With A Hoe

VICTORY GARDENS are sprouting up all over the state, giving mute testimony to the labors of a legion of householders who have converted flower beds and backyards into vegetable plots.

The Man with a Hoe is no longer just a picture or a poem. He is John Citizen spading an obdurate piece of ground on his home site, sweating under the evening sun of War Saving Time while he digs fertilizer into rock-ribbed adobe soil, scatters seeds into furrows and nervously awaits the coming of the first green shoot to tell him his labors were not in vain.

Today's man—or woman—with a hoe is discovering, in a small way, that a farmer's life isn't duck soup. For where is the city man with soul so dead he never to himself has said, "Some day I'd like to get a little farm in the country and grow a few things—just enough to live on, you know." Now he's discovering the trials and tribulations which can beset even a 10 by 6 vegetable patch—drought and plant pests, birds and the neighbor's dog, slugs and snails, aphids and alkalinity, moles and mud-caked earth.

Victory, to the nation's new corps of amateur gardeners, may not come on a silver platter, but one product they're sure to harvest is a better understanding of the sweat, toil and time John Farmer puts into his job—the elbow grease they'll need to run that "little farm in the country."

Taxpayers Too Generous

CHARLES J. McCOLGAN, franchise tax commissioner, announced that many California taxpayers are overpaying state income taxes.

The overpayments result from taxpayers failing to claim the correct amount of personal exemption under the state act, which allows a single individual a personal exemption of $1,000, and married individuals living together during the entire year, a personal exemption of $2,500.

Failure to claim the correct personal exemption for state income tax purposes is apparently occasioned by the misapprehension of taxpayers that the personal exemption of $750 for single individuals and $1,500 for married individuals allowed under the Federal Revenue Act is the full amount allowable under the state act.

Last Call!

LAST MINUTE procrastinators better hustle! There's Monday, March 16, bearing down on you, little more than a few scant hours away.

Income tax day is now more than a financial obligation. Your tax dollars this year have become fighting dollars, helping build weapons, helping arm, feed and clothe the country's defenders, helping bring nearer the turning of the tide of this war.

For self interest and America's interest, get those fighting dollars in Uncle Sam's hands by March 16!

The Footlighters Met Tuesday

The Footlighters met Tuesday evening in the hall with the business session presided over by LBen Howard, president. The affairs of the recent production were completed and plans for another play started. Two new members were voted into the organization, Florence Smith and Kenneth McDonell.

At the close of the business meeting Merle Knappen took charge of the entertainment, which consisted of five unrehearsed pantomimes put on by members of the group.

Refreshments served by D. H. Cramer, Mary Grim, and Peggy Church, adjourned the meeting until next month, April 14, when Laverna Hodges will have charge of entertainment and Edith Morley refreshments.

The many friends of Mrs. D. H. Cramer are happy to know that she is again able to be out and last week resumed her station of Worthy Matron of Los Gatos O. E. S., assisted by Associate Matron Olva Dodge. However, doctor's orders are for no resumption of general activities and for abundant rest.

What Should You Save To Help?

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The following table issued by the Treasury Department is intended as a savings yardstick for the average income-earner. It suggests how everyone of the 48,000,000 employed persons in the United States may participate in the war effort through the systematic purchase of Defense Savings Bonds.

"The job ahead of us is far bigger than most of us realize," Secretary Morgenthau declared in making the table public. "I know that the American people are ready to do their part to win the war. One of the ways we can do much more is by intensifying our effort in the purchase of Defense Bonds."

While persons without dependents may be able to set aside more than the suggested figures, persons with several dependents, or with other heavy family obligations, may be unable to save at the suggested rate, the Treasury Department pointed out.

THE BOOK
MARK

by marty

"The Moon Is Down" by John Steinbeck.

John Steinbeck, in his new book, though it is short, has written a story crammed full of powerful thought and excellent example. He has grabbed at random, a village, isolated, contented—its people happy and busy. He has shown this village and its people under attack by an invader, the invaders, after having had the stage all set for them by a betrayer within the little town, march in and take possession, killing six of the natives as they marched. Into the Mayor's house they go and make it their headquarters. They force the Mayor to hold his office and use him to try and make the people obey them. The people, simple, home-loving and democratic, respect their Mayor and feel that they should do as he says, but at the same time they know that things are not right.

From the very beginning the conquerors have trouble with the townspeople. Their soldiers are mysteriously killed, there are explosions. The conquerors do not understand that the people do not love them. They are upset. The author has portrayed the enemy as humans—as men, sensitive and misled. They have been so misled that they are completely unable to understand the actions of the conquered people. They do not understand the forces which make it impossible for the mayor to do what they ask him to do whether he is afraid or not.

And the Mayor is afraid, as any normal human is afraid when he is facing certain death, yet he will not order his people to stop fighting because he knows that they would not stop, any more than he could give the order to stop.

When speaking to the chief officer the Mayor said, "You see, sir, nothing can change it. You will be destroyed and driven out. The people don't like to be conquered, sir, and so they will not be. Free men cannot start a war, but once it is started, they can fight on in defeat. Herd men, followers of a leader, cannot do that, and so it is always the herd men who win battles and the free men who win wars. You will find that is so, sir."

To make the point of the story more vivid to you, let me explain that in the book Steinbeck has not named the "conquered town." It can be any one of the thousands of towns in Europe today that has been conquered by the "leader."

And so, my dear readers, this is the substance of the book, which came from the publishers only as late as the 6th of March.

I am listing it with those books that I have read that have thrilled me to sleeplessness.

JEANETTE MacDonald, WHO WILL SING
IN SAN JOSE, FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 20Noted Screen Star
Will Sing In San Jose, Friday, 20th

It was just a year ago that Jeanette MacDonald, screen idol, who sings in the civic auditorium, San Jose, on Friday evening, March 20, completed a concert tour of the United States which smashed all attendance records and was acclaimed as the greatest triumph since Jenny Lind captivated the country in the 50's.

Miss MacDonald's voice, with its lyric sweetness, richness and warmth, will be heard in a popular program, including American and Scotch folk songs, and at least one song written by her husband, Gene Raymond. Gene Raymond is a First Lieutenant of the Air Force Combat Command of the U. S. Army, and the devotion of the Raymonds to one another is one of Hollywood's legends.

When Jeanette MacDonald is not fulfilling a screen or concert contract, she is apt to be found in uniform, busily working for the American Women's Voluntary Services, Inc. She is giving the entire proceeds of her San Francisco and Los Angeles concerts to this defense organization.

Tickets for the San Jose recital on March 20 are on sale at the auditorium box office, Columbia 7087.

Campbell Model
Aircraft Class
Does Its Bit

Plans and procedures for constructing model aircraft requested by the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics for use of military forces and civilian defense have arrived at the Campbell high school and a class of twenty boys, under the direction of S. R. Casaleglio has started on this most important project.

These models include makes now in use by the U. S. forces and those of enemy powers. Awards are offered to boys whose models pass the rigid specifications setup by the bureau. The certificate of award is posted on the main bulletin board.

These models are to be used by army, navy and civilian personnel for gunnery practice and recognition purposes since all aircraft have distinctive shapes and lines.

Campbell's quota of the 30,000 to be built in California, is fifty.

Neither Here Nor There

By IRVIN S. COBB

TWO French Canadians were traveling down a Quebec river in a houseboat. One of them knew the river and the other did not. They anchored for the night on a bar. During the night the river rose and along toward daylight the craft went adrift. Three hours later the motion awoke one of the travelers. He poked his head out of the door. An entirely strange section of scenery was passing. "Baptiste! Baptiste!" he yelled. "Get up! We ain't here some more." "No, by gar!" said his companion after a quick glance at the surroundings—"we are twelve miles from here!" (American News Features, Inc.)

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

This is income tax time, the Ides of March for tax-payers!

And this year, with exemptions sharply reduced, rates drastically increased and new war surtaxes added, nearly every person employed in the country must ante up for Uncle Sam.

The man with small income must do his bit; the man with large income must do his bit. Nearly every man, woman and child will feel the pinch of war's exactions. Nearly every one, soon, will realize that war is truly a business of "sweat, blood and tears."

In newspaper columns, on theater screens, on billboards and on the radio, the message is being hammered home into America's consciousness: "Beat the Axis; Pay Your Taxes!"

But even though the people of the country have been told that they will have to give up half of their income before the year is done to pay for the tremendous war effort, there has been less grumbling on the whole this year about taxes than in bygone years when the burden was far lighter. In Maine or California, in the city or on the farm, in the low brackets or in the high brackets, patriotic Americans are making ready to give until it hurts. When they are giving their sons and husbands to the armed forces, when they are taking disruption of their businesses and their whole manner of life without whimpering, they aren't going to begrudge the money — support so essential to victory.

There is little of complacency now on the part of the American people. Slow to anger, but grimly determined when they once get their dander up, the American people are ready to take whatever comes, if they are convinced it is necessary to winning the war.

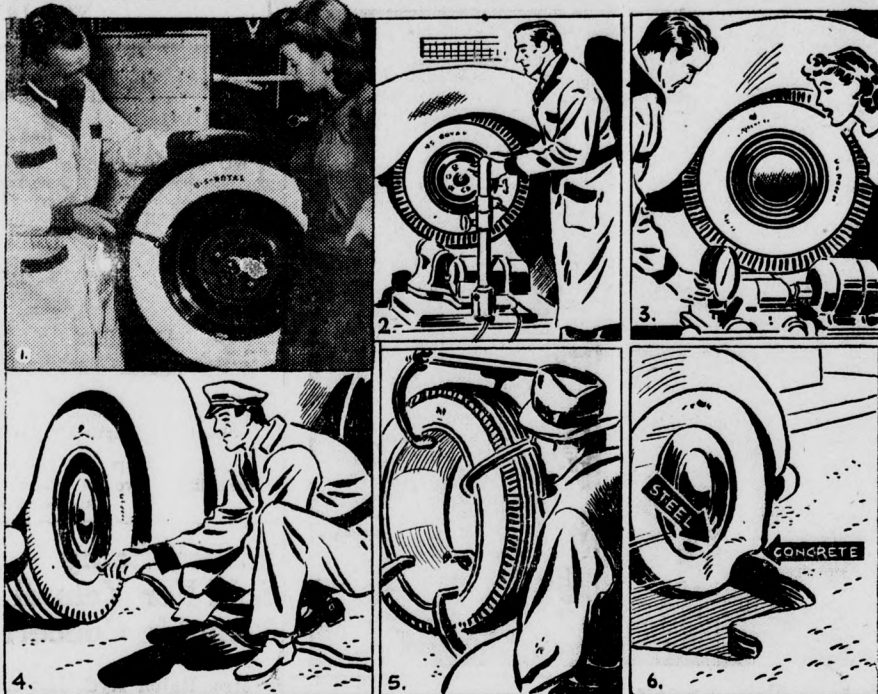

That does not mean, however, that the American people, when they are making every sacrifice their government asks them to make, are going to condone a "politics as usual" attitude in official circles.

The angry, caustic reaction of the American people when Congress took time out from the war to vote its members life pensions ought to serve as a warning signal not only to official Washington, but to public officers in state and local government as well. The bitter outbreak against loading civilian defense with political parasites and social experimentalists ought to serve as a second warning, if a second were needed.

America is on its mettle; it is willing to give, but it wants its government leaders to realize that they, too, are part of the American people — and that they, too, must sacrifice some of their peacetime luxuries.

America is willing to pay taxes to beat the Axis — and pay as much as the job requires. But if America ever wakes up to how much of its tax money is being spent for activities that have no bearing on the war — and which are a hang-over from the past dec-

SAVE RUBBER. Uncle Sam Needs It!

Every ounce of rubber saved by civilians goes into a war product. Proper care of your tires can increase their usefulness and make such saving possible. The United States Rubber Company, through its Car Owner's Creed, has issued this advice on tire preservation: (1) Wheels should be checked for balance frequently, since the greatest cause of "front end jitter" is unbalanced wheel assembly; (2) The commonest form of misalignment is excessive "toe-in or toe-out" of the front wheels which scuffs away rubber. Check wheel alignment periodically; (3) When brakes are out of adjustment tread wear is uneven. Have brakes checked often by a dealer with up-to-date equipment; (4) Watch the pressure in your tires. Under-inflation, say U. S. Rubber engineers, can cut mileage 20%; (5) Inspect your tires and tubes regularly to locate troubles before they become serious. When cords are broken inside the tire you can't see them but they may cut the tube if not located; (6) Avoid sharp impacts with curbs or curb stones or other objects. Severe impacts may be absorbed by the tire but they are often deadly. Rim cuts kill tires.

X in X-Ray
The "X" in X-ray is the standard symbol for the unknown. When these radiations were first discovered by Wilhelm Konrad von Roentgen, German physicist, in 1895, he called them X-rays, because of their unknown nature.

ade of social experimentation and boondoggling—many of the men now in public office will not be there after the next election.

Non-military expenditures of government totaled more than seventeen billion dollars for the past fiscal year, or $131 per capita. As yet there has been no reduction in that colossal expenditure for non-war purposes, and while efforts are being made to reduce some expenditures, even more effective efforts are being made to increase others. As yet, there has been no evidence of any real willingness on the part of our politicians to make the sacrifices which they are constantly calling on the people at home to make. And it's high time that some of the men in high places should start making plans for conversion of government to a war-time basis. If government officials don't do it voluntarily, they are likely to do it under the whip-lash of an aroused public opinion.

The American people are willing to sacrifice to save America. What about our American officeholders?
